

Southwest Climate Adaptation Science Center

SENIOR TRIBAL CLIMATE RESILIENCE LIAISON

Cynthia Naha

MEET CYNTHIA

Cynthia is a member of the Hopi Tribe and is also Tewa and Ihanktowan Dakota (Yankton Sioux). She received her Bachelor's degree in American Indian Studies from Arizona State University.

“ I am thankful for the opportunity to continue working with Tribal, Pueblo and Native Nations, including Indigenous communities, and looking forward to connecting with you all. ”

CONTACT CYNTHIA

 swcasc.arizona.edu

 aihec.org

 cnaha@aihec.org

 University of Arizona

➤ TRIBAL LIAISON SERVICES

Cynthia assists Tribes, Tribal organizations, and Tribal colleges and universities (TCUs) located in the SW CASC region of AZ, CA, NV, and UT in identifying and addressing needs related to climate resilience and adaptation with resources available through the SW CASC. She assists with coordination of Tribal engagement in the 2024 Southwest Adaptation Forum (SWAF). Cynthia also leads the ad hoc committee, New Mexico Tribal Resilience Action Network (NM TRAN), which is currently working on developing the Southwest Tribal Climate Adaptation Menu (SWTCAM).

➤ OTHER SUPPORT

Cynthia can help facilitate connections to other partners, assist in organizing meetings and workshops, help with grant writing, and connect you to other regional Tribal Climate Resilience Liaisons. Cynthia can also help make connections to NM TRAN if there is interest in assisting in the development of the SWTCAM. Explore the SW CASC Tribal Climate Adaptation Resources webpage for funding or grant opportunities and reach out to Cynthia for more information.

